

back to beatitude

JACK MICHELINE

November 6, 1929 - February 27, 1998

LINKS

www.jack-micheline.com

Notice: Copyright Reserved Content ©Michelle Maria Boleyn

A READING BY:

Jack Micheline

A WALK IN THE SUN

PHOTOGRAPHY ©MICHELLE MARIA BOLEYN 1986

⑤ Debris of faded memories wins come with their bottle of dreams
89¢ for cheap red wine

⑥ Here at the end of the line on a February morning a poet sings of song and plays the harmonica to celebrate being ⑦ To sit on this old
couch and look at the sky

③
But he closes his eyes, the politicians do not come here
they are busy with pomp and ceremony

only the lost and the damned
blessed by rain and the sun

④ ~~at least by hand~~ ^{our} ~~dreams~~ and the blue sky ~~could not~~ take away the sun on this ~~morning~~ ^{morning}

5) (S) ^{my} one finger moves
(S) ^{photo} across the sky one freight train across the Rockies one brush stroke ~~on~~ ~~rough at the roughness~~ ~~of the~~ canvas south of Murder one smile ^{for} the children of time one Jig for all of us

Dead
only the rag picker
and the poet
only the wild at twilight and the night sky
only the orphan
and the rebel

